

Living with Tides and Tigers – The Sundarbans Mangrove Forest

The Sundarbans, shared by Bangladesh and India in the Ganges delta, is the world's largest contiguous mangrove forest. Life in this ever-changing wilderness is ruled by tides and tigers.

Living with Tides and Tigers – The Sundarbans Mangrove Forest

by Gertrud and Helmut Denzau, Elisabeth Fahrni Mansur and Rubaiyat Mansur Mowgli

This stunning collection of photographs documents the wildlife, various ecological aspects and the people of this unique jungle. Interspersed with personal accounts about the authors' experiences over the past nearly twenty years in the forest and insightful back-ground information, this attractive coffee-table book aims to increase awareness about this fragile ecosystem.

Denzau, G. and H.; Fahrni Mansur, E.; Mansur, R.M.

Living with Tides and Tigers – The Sundarbans Mangrove Forest

Hardcover with jacket, 22,5×30 cm
184 pages full color, 150 color photographs
Price: CHF 60.–/EUR 39.–, plus shipping costs
Publisher: mowgliz production, Dhaka
ISBN 984-300-003111-4

Available from www.mowgliz.com or in a bookstore

